The Examiner has rejected claims 48-50 under 35 U.S.C. § 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The applicant has amended independent claim 48, by removing “ a rollerball”, and adding “said rollerball”, this claim should now be in a condition for allowance when considered in light of the amendments to the claims. Regarding dependent claims 49 and 50, these claims were rejected because of there dependency on rejected independent claim 48, therefore these claims should now be in a condition for allowance too.

Claim rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 102(b)

The Examiner has rejected claims 1, 3, 4, 6, 7, 42, and 48-50 under 35 U.S.C. § 102(b), as being anticipated by Sakwa. The applicant has amended independent claims 1 and 42, so as to better describe what the applicant regards as the invention. In addition, applicant has added new claim 51 to further define appliacnt's invention.

Regarding independent claim 1, the applicant has added further limitations to better describe the receptacle that contains the rollerball. In particular the applicant has amended this claim so that the receptacle with the rollerball has a first end and a second end, and wherein the first end, the end with the rollerball, is removably connected to the sleeve. The applicant has further amended the claim so that both the receptacles and the sleeve have equal diameters. Sakwa does not disclose applicants arrangement of the rollerball with the sleeve. In Sakwa, the roller applicator is not removably connected to the sleeve, as seen in FIG. 4 of Sakwa, and this rejection should be withdrawn..

Regarding independent claim 42, the applicant has added further limitations to better describe the receptacle that contains the rollerball, in particular the applicant has amended this claim so that the receptacle with the rollerball has a first end and a second end, wherein the first end, the end with the rollerball, is removably connected to the sleeve. In Sakwa, the roller applicator is not removably connected to the sleeve, as seen in FIG. 4 of Sakwa, and as such the rejection of independent claim 42 should be withdrawn.

Regarding claims 3, 4, 6, 7, 48-50, the Examiner rejected these claims because they depended on rejected independent claims 1 and 42. For the reasons stated above as to claims 1 and 42 the rejection of claims 3, 4, 6, 7, 48-50 should also be withdrawn.

Claim rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 103

The Examiner has rejected claims 1-31 and 40-50, under 35 U.S.C. § 103, as being unpatentable over Roehrich in view of Costa, or Pieper et al. The applicant has amended independent claims 1 and 42. Roehrich does not teach or suggest two receptacles that are equal in diameter to the sleeve, quite the contrary, drawing the Examiner's attention to FIG. 1 of the Roerich patent, the receptacles are clearly not equal. Furthermore, the sidewalls of the receptacles of the Roehrich patent are not parallel. As for the other cited prior art references, neither Costa or Pieper teach or suggest the combining a rollerball applicator with a mascara brush or a doe foot applicator to form one compact cosmetic applicator as in the present invention, and as such independent claims 1 and 42 should now be in condition for allowance.

Regarding claims 2-30, 40-41 and 43-50, the Examiner rejected these claims because of their dependency on rejected independent claims 1 and 42. For the foregoing reasons these claims should also be in a condition for allowance.

Regarding the obvious rejection of Roehrich in combination with the other cited references, the applicant has submitted a rule 1.132 affidavit with this paper. The applicant affirms in this affidavit the commercial success of the present invention in the cosmetic market today. To date the applicant has sold more than $4,000,000 worth of the present invention. Buyers of the applicant's invention include such cosmetic industry mega giants as Estee Lauder, Avon, Britney Spears, and Victoria's Secret, etc.

MPEP § 2141 III

“Objective evidence or secondary considerations such as unexpected results, commercial success, long felt need, failure of others, copying of others, licensing, and skepticism of experts are relevant to the issue of obviousness (emphasis added) and must be considered in every case in which they are present.”

The applicant brings this to the attention of the Examiner to further evidence that what the applicant regards as the invention is nonobvious in the cosmetic industry.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, applicant's claims are patentable over the cited prior art and the application should be in condition for allowance. In addition applicant has enclosed checks that total $480.00, which will cover:

Diane Breidenbach being duly sworn deposes and says that:

1. She is CEO of Fragrance Systems Inc., the assignee of the above identified application.
2. Since the product which is the subject matter of the above application was introduced by Fragrance Systems, Inc. in 2001, it has achieved widespread customer recognition in the marketplace because of its unique features.
3. Many well known cosmetic companies have become customers of Fragrance Systems and have included the dual cosmetic container having a roller ball and a doe foot applicator in their product lines. These cosmetic companies include such major companies as Estee Lauder, Mary Kay, Avon, Proctor & Gamble, Elizabeth Arden, Clinique, Britney Spears line, The Body Shop, Victoria's Secret and Hard Candy. These companies have chosen to sell the product of the present invention because of its unique features.
4. Fragrance Systems' customers have promoted the product of the present application to the public. For example, the dual cosmetic container having a roller ball and a doe foot applicator of the present application have been featured by Victoria's Secret Christmas 2002 Catalog and Victoria's Secret Christmas 2003 Catalog. Copies of relevant portions of Victoria's Secrets Christmas 2002 and Christmas 2003 Catalogs are attached hereto as Exhibits 1 and 2.

5. At the 2004 Academy Awards presented by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, Victoria's Secret, a customer of Fragrance System for the product of the application, used the dual cosmetic container of the above identified application as a gift for the attendees to the awards ceremony. Attached hereto as Exhibit 3 is a copy of an article from the March 21, 2004 issue of Newsday showing the dispenser of the present invention as part of the Oscar Nominee Gift Pack for the 2004 Academy Awards ceremony.

6. Estee Lauder has advertised Applicant's product. Attached hereto as Exhibit 4 is a copy of an Estee Lauder advertisement offering Applicant's dual cosmetic container.

7. Attached hereto as Exhibit 5 is a copy of a Bloomingdale's promotion for the dual cosmetic container of the present application as part of a Mother's Day gift package.

8. Attached hereto as Exhibit 6 is a page from the Mary Kay website showing the dispenser of the present invention as part of the Mary Kay "Velocity" product line.

9. Sephora's Britney Spears product line includes the dispenser of the present invention. Attached hereto as Exhibit 7 is a copy of the www.sephora.com website showing applicant's product.

10. Seventeen Magazine ran an article entitled "Wallet Size Lip Gloss, Clump Free Mascara and More I Gotta-Have-Em Tidbits by Laura Kinney." Item three in the article is directed to Applicant's product where the author states "Talk about bang for your buck, The Body Shop's Tint & Shine Packs Three Functions in One Handy Wand". See Exhibit 8.

11. The dual cosmetic container of the present application has been shown a number of times in publications in the form of advertisements for the product sold by Hard Candy.

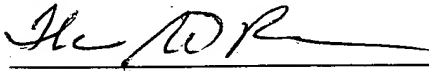

Attached hereto are Exhibits 9-12 which show the Applicant's product as marketed by its customer Hard Candy under the designation Stain & Shine.

12. Since the product was introduced in 2001, Applicant has been a commercial success in the cosmetic industry. Fragrance Systems has sold over 4,000,000 dual ended roller ball/doe foot rod applicator packages of the present invention.

THE GOODY BAGS

When they say it's great just to be nominated, they're not kidding. Oscar nominees, along with presenters and other VIPs, are showered with thousands of dollars in gifts. Contenders in the actress and supporting actress categories walk away with the most swag (diamonds, perfume, designer clothes, more diamonds) but there's plenty to go around. Presenters goodies this year are supposedly worth more than $30,000 — all wrapped up in an elegant suede duffel designed by Maria Lyons. (Feeling left out? Men: mortals can buy the bag, in different colors, next week for $395 on marialyons.com.) Here's a look at just some of the loot — like any of these Hollywood types really need this stuff.

1. fringe benefits

Painting your lower lashes can be risky business. Hello, clumps! To the rescue: L'Oréal's So-Lo Lower Lash Mascara. The mini wand grabs and defines every single tiny lash. Mascara, $7.15; drugstores.

2. weird science

If chem class rocks your inner periodic table (Fe, O, Cu... later), you'll love Chemistryset's bevy of flasks, test tubes and applicator jars filled with skin-softening tub treats. Bath salts, $16; Chemistryset.net.

3. mo' money

Talk about bang for your buck: The Body Shop's Tint & Shine packs three functions in one handy wand. Tip: Stain your lips and cheeks with long-lasting Lip Tint, then follow with Lip Gloss for plumping shine. Lip and cheek color, $15; Thebodyshop.com.

4. passion for fashion

Afraid the suede skirt you've been jonesing for will kill your cash stash? Go for Tarte's fall makeup line instead. Packed in purple suede, the compacts are pret-a-porter for the purse! Eyeshadow, $16; Beauty.com.

5. line me up

If you're a gal who likes her options, you'll love Prescriptives Colorclick Eye Stick. You choose two silky shadows, click 'em together and voilà—sexy eyes. Eye pencil, $14 for each color; department stores.

6. lipstick or plastic?

Gloss that fits in your wallet, say what? Trish McEvoy's Maxed Out packs 10 glosses and a brush in a compact the size of a credit card. Lip gloss set, $18; 800-431-4306.

7. win it!

If you love what Fudge's hair glue does for your tresses, just think what the funky new makeup line, F2, will do for your face! Five readers and five seventeen.com visitors can each score one Illuminating Shimmer Powder (no purchase necessary; for details, see last pages). Powder, $95; Fudge.com.

COSMO LOOK

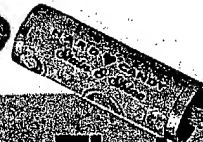

For soft locks like Mandy Moore's, condition with care.

DRIED-OUT MANE MYSTERY

Q: Could my deep conditioner be drying out my hair? I use it three times a week, and my hair feels like straw.

A: You're probably not suffering from a lack of moisture but rather a buildup of the proteins that are found in many deep conditioners. "Proteins help make hair stronger, but they can't give it enough texture if they are overused," says Carol Ward, a hair stylist in Chicago. You should pay attention to which type of deep conditioner you've been applying. Strengthening formulas are packed with the most protein and should be used once a week at most. We like Allure Hair Seed Deep Conditioner, $23.75. Conditioners for color-treated hair can be used twice a week. Try V06 Hot Oil Treatment, $4.99. To rebalance your dry strands, use a clarifying shampoo to remove those excess proteins from your locks. Try Neutrogena Anti-Residue Shampoo, $6.

Lip and cheek stains give color that won't budge.

Makeup That Stays Put

Q: How can I make my makeup last throughout the entire day?

A: It's frustrating to work hard perfecting your makeup in the a.m., only to have it fade away by lunchtime. One reason for the disappearing act could be that you're constantly touching your face, which can rub off your makeup, says celebrity makeup artist Morgen Schick. To up the long-wearing factor of your foundation, set it in place by dusting a light layer of powder over it. Try Morgen Schick's Whisper Set Powder, $20. Also, apply a lip and cheek stain under your lipstick and blush so these places will have color all day. We like Hard Candy Stain and Shine, $15 (shown above). To make your shadow effect stay put, layer a powder formula over a cream version in the same color.

Ouch-Free Wax Hints

Q: I love the results of waxing, but I absolutely can't stand the pain. Is there anything I can do to make it hurt less?

A: There are a few things you can do to soften the sting. First, never schedule an appointment on the three days before or after your period—your skin is most tender during this time. Popping an anti-inflammatory painkiller, like Advil, about two hours before your appointment can also help minimize pain and will reduce post-waxing redness. Another way to kick up the comfort factor a notch is to try one of the new numbing creams. These temporarily desensitize the nerve endings in the area, says Cindy Barshop, owner of the Completely Bare spas in New York. Apply the cream to the area at least 30 minutes before waxing begins. A great one to try is L.M.X 4 Topical Anesthetic Cream, $25.

Couple Conundrum

No matter how many times a day my guy shaves, he always seems to have stubble. What is he doing wrong?

It sounds like he should use a safety razor. Hair grows in a cycle, and even if he shaves every day, some of the hair will be in the growing phase and will start to grow back. He should also use a shaving cream that is designed to keep the hair soft and easy to shave. He should also use a aftershave that is designed to soothe the skin and prevent irritation.
